In critical condition

Trooper shot, suspects nabbed at roadblock

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A Mississippi State Trooper remains in a critical but stable condition after being shot during a routine traffic check on I-10 at approximately 7:44 p.m. Friday evening.

Trooper David Bruce Ladner, 33, of Gulfport was in the intensive care unit of Gulfport Memorial Hospital late Saturday after undergoing surgery Friday night.

Gov. Bill Allain, Commissioner of Public Safety Jim Roberts, and Highway Patrol Chief D.D. Gattavich at a press conference late Saturday in Gulfport announced that Ladner was in Gulfport Memorial Hospital's Intensive Care Unit in a critical but stable condition.

Gov. Allain said they visited the hospital's ICU Saturday afternoon and nurses were working on the trooper and they were not able to speak to the officer.

Roberts stated two suspects were apprehended in Hancock County at approximately 1:30 a.m. Saturday at the intersection of Highways 608 and 43.

The two suspects, Tracey Allen Hansen, 32, and Anita L. Krecic, 25, are charged with the alleged assault of a law officer, two counts of grand larceny, and one count of armed robbery, Roberts said.

Petitioners question verification delay

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

County resident D.H. Martin asked the Hancock County School Board Thursday why there had been a delay in submitting a petition against the proposed school bond issue to authorities for verification.

Martin presented to the board copies of documents showing where the petition had been submitted to the Superintendent's Office April 2 but had not been given to the Hancock County Circuit Clerk's Office until April 8.

Board Attorney Joseph Gex answered for the board stating there was no time limit placed on submitting the petition to officials for verification.

Superintendent Terrell Randolph added the petition did not legally have to be turned over to the circuit clerk's office at any time.

It had been reported Sunday the petition had been turned over to the circuit clerk's office but was not in fact turned over until Wednesday.

Martin said he had also been concerned that copies of the petition had been "floating around" in the community when he understood the petition was supposed to be locked in a vault.

Gex explained that following the acceptance of the petition by the school board it was entered into the

Local NAACP branch supports school board appointments

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Hancock Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People supports the practice of appointing school board members.

In a recent letter to the Bay St. Louis City Council, Geraldine Lang, chairman of the group's Education Committee, said the local branch opposes any change which would allow city representatives on the Bay St.

Louis-Waveland School District to be elected instead of appointed.

Lang said recent news articles regarding recommendations for the change prompted the group to make this decision.

"The Hancock County Branch of the NAACP opposes such a change which would eliminate black representation on the board," she said.

"No district could be drawn that would reflect the possibility of a black person being elected," Lang continued.

With the present appointment system a black person has an opportunity to be appointed by the mayor, she said.

In addition to the letter to the city council, the local NAACP branch also sent a letter to the school board requesting a conference with the group to discuss the issue.

School District Superintendent Roger Oge said a meeting had not yet been scheduled but the school board would meet with the group as soon as possible.

"I appreciate our present board but I am certain that if an all elected school board becomes a reality, the districting will be such as to afford minority representation," Oge said.

"Personally, I could not endorse any plan that robbed a minority of an opportunity for representation on the board," he continued.

The school board is currently made up of five members, three of whom are appointed by the Bay St. Louis mayor.

Bay St. Louis appointees are Betty Diboll, Raymond Robinson and Charles Robinson.

Diboll term expires in February 1988, Robinson's in February 1989 and Robinson began a five-year term this year which will expire in 1991.

Robinson is the only member of the school board who is not a resident of the district. He is a resident of the city of Bay St. Louis.

Teacher contract renewal speculation continues in Bay-Waveland district

By DENA BISNETTE

Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District officials will neither confirm nor deny rumors concerning how many teachers will be without jobs next year.

The rumors estimate the number of teachers who were not recommended for renewal of contract for next year as ranging from six to 50. The numbers mentioned most often by the public include six, 11 and 35.

Superintendent of Education Roger Oge stated Friday that the higher numbers, specifically 50 and 35, are not correct, but declined to provide the correct statistic.

At the school board's most recent meeting, the board went almost immediately into an executive session to discuss personnel.

At the end of the session, the majority of the district's teachers were recommended for re-employment and Oge was authorized to complete contract proceedings.

He was authorized to notify those not recommended under a specific procedure required by state law.

No statistics were released after the meeting pending notification, Oge said.

Board President Betty Diboll stated that she could not supply specific figures Friday. She did explain that some of the non-recommendations involved "routine" resignations on the part of the individual teachers.

Others involved changes in job description or duties, while some teachers simply were not offered contract extensions for next year, she added.

Others are reportedly not recommended for contract renewal by their principals.

Under state law, the teachers not offered contracts must be notified in writing on or before April 8, which the district has already done, and must be allowed the right to a hearing.

Waveland City Prosecutor Henry Cook has told the board of aldermen that he needs "A guarantee that he will be paid" before he can represent the city in the next court term.

Cook is presently serving as city prosecutor on a retainer of $275 per month, which covers night court four times each month, preparation time and daytime conferences related to night court cases.

That fee does not cover appeals of city court cases to Hancock County Circuit Court, for which Cook charges a rate of $50 per hour.

In addressing the board Tuesday, Cook stated that he has "had problems getting paid since November," when there was an inquiry on a bill he had submitted for an appeal case.

The attorney said he understood someone in the police department had stated that the city was not a case that had not actually been tried.

unusually long, involved appeal" of a shoplifting case was cut back to $600.

According to Cook, City Clerk Arcelyn Dastugue told him the bill was cut back to $600 because attorney's fees can not exceed the amount of the fine levied in the case.

He added that his statements are sometimes as much as 60 days late.

"What if I had lost the case? What if the defendant had been sentenced to time in jail rather than a fine? Would I have been asked to serve some of his time?" Cook asked.

He explained that although prosecution of drinking under the influence cases is becoming more and more sophisticated, the average case costs the city about $100 to $150. However, the fine from the average case yields about $400 in revenues for the city.

"If you are going to have a justice system, you have a price to pay. I can not go to court worrying about whether any fee will be reduced or whether I will be paid at all," the attorney said.

Three arrested at Bayou Cadet on oystering charge

Joe Stone, assistant director for the Department of Wildlife Conservation, has reported that three men, Andrew Elchos of Bureau of Marine Resources was instrumental over the weekend in the arrest of three Hancock County men for illegal taking of oysters from closed waters.

Stone stated, "Those persons who continue to attempt to take oysters from closed waters should realize that officers of the Bureau of Marine Resources are on duty 24 hours a day, seven days a week."

"They should realize that these persons 'pirating oysters' may get away with breaking the law for a short while, but sooner or later they will be caught, and prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law."

Both were using an alias when stopped by Trooper Ladner, Roberts said, and bond on each suspect was set at over one million dollars.

Details of the officer's shooting are still sketchy and the investigation continues, the commissioner said.

State Trooper Freddie Keel was among the law officers at the roadblock where the suspects were apprehended.

Roadblocks were set up throughout Hancock County, neighboring counties and in Louisiana and Alabama.

Officials at the press conference indicated the officer's vehicle was taken after the shooting, then abandoned, and apparently through force a Ford Ranger was then taken and later abandoned. The suspects acquired a ride with a motorist and were then arrested at the roadblock. The shooting occurred in the West Lane of I-10 near Wolf River.

Some 50 state troopers were in the area in addition to federal, state, county, and city officers of all types, Commissioner Roberts said.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson said his department had all available officers helping in the search for the suspects. Road blocks were set up throughout the county.

The truck used by the suspects was recovered at approximately 1:30 p.m. Saturday in the woods off the Southern Freeway road.

Commissioner Roberts had nothing but praise for the support received during the chase and for the complete cooperation of all law enforcement agencies.

Peterson indicated that during his career, he had never seen as many law enforcement officers in Hancock County at one time as he did Friday night.

The officer was taken from the scene of the shooting to the hospital by a passing motorist who stopped to lend assistance.

"We are grateful for the motorist who took Trooper Ladner to the hospital, as he may have saved the officer's life," Col. Civitanovich said.

The patrol chief continued, "We hear of people seeing things happen in big cities and who turn their head and do nothing to help. I am grateful for the concern of our citizens for each other."

Governor Allain reported in talking with the surgeon that Trooper Ladner was struck by two bullets. One entered his side into his lungs and liver.

ETV Brief

CHOIRS ON ROADS
 "Mississippi Roads" stars this week's show with musical entertainment by Clinton High School's Attache Show Choir and the Southern Style group of Br. Khaven.

"Mississippi Roads" can be seen at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, April 14, on Mississippi ETV.

In the first segment, "Roads" interviews Winona Costello of Clinton and Irene Beeson of Brookhaven, "pactive directors of the two ups, about what goes into organizing such groups as well as rehearsing and performing.

In the next segment, Jim Bazor of Jackson introduces viewers to a unique basketball team of which he's president: the Jackson Free Wheelers, who all utilize wheelchairs. Bazor relates some of the on-court and off-court activities of the Free Wheelers.

And, in the final segment of the evening, Stacy Allen of Vicksburg, park ranger at the Vicksburg National Military Park, shares an update on the restoration of the Civil War gunboat, the USS Cairo.

Elchos stated that the three persons were arrested on a total of five charges and three dredges were confiscated. There were some 35 sacks of illegal oysters taken during the arrest, in which Elchos was assisted by Hancock County Sheriff's Deputy Leo Ladner.

The men were observed by Elchos as they were oystering in Bayou Cadet. According to Stone, further information is being withheld pending litigation.

"The liver area is the biggest concern of the doctors," Governor Allain stated.

A second bullet entered in the back near the officer's neck, Allain said, indicating a third shot may have been fired.

Commissioner Roberts said he was at the Highway Patrol's headquarters in Jackson until the early hours Saturday morning keeping abreast of the incident.

"I notified Gov. Allain as soon as the incident happened, and as he requested, kept him informed throughout the night," Roberts commented.

Florida authorities had a warrant for the suspects for robbery and or armed robbery, Roberts commented.

Saturday morning an all-out search continued for the pick-up truck the suspects were alleged to have used in their attempt to evade authorities.

Even a helicopter was used, Col. Civitanovich said.

Officials said the trooper's gun, which was missing, has been recovered and also a gun the suspect allegedly used in the shooting.

On November 11 another state trooper was shot while making a routine traffic check on I-40 in Harrison County, while in early December another trooper was shot at and injured by flying glass in Jackson County, Civitanovich stated.

Among the agencies involved in the search for the suspects were Mississippi Highway Patrol, Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Pearl River and Stone County sheriff's deputies.

Local authorities placed the exact location of the apprehension of the two suspects on Highway 43 two miles North of Highway 603.

Others in the search included Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Pass Christian, Long Beach, Gulfport and Hattiesburg police officers, Bureau of Marine Resources officers, Fish and Wildlife officers, state tax officers, Alcohol and Beverage Enforcement officers, Federal Bureau of Investigation and U.S. Customs officers in addition to Alabama and Louisiana state troopers.

Gov. Allain, Roberts and Col. Civitanovich arrived at about noon Saturday on the coast.

All three indicated they felt there was a need for them to be with the trooper and his family during this crisis.

Correction

In a Sea Coast Echo article published Thursday announcing Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson's candidacy for reelection, the Aug. 4 Primary Election was inadvertently reported as a June election.

The name of the sheriff's 12-year-old daughter Wendy Lynne also inadvertently was omitted from the article.

The Echo apologizes for the errors.

Quotables by CUEVAS

We are happy to see the 'Keep Our Beaches Clean' signs posted along our sand beach.

The signs are compliments of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Sand Beach Advisory Council.

During a drive down Beach Boulevard on Friday, I noted how nice and clean the sand beach is at this time.

Warmer weather will mean more use of the beach and I am hoping those who use the areas will properly dispose of their trash.

Barrels have been placed along many areas of the beach and it is hoped that they will be properly used.

The sand beach is now cleaned and it would be nice for it to continue being that way, yet that is possible only through the help of everyone.

Enjoy yourself at the beach.

It was good to see the dozen or so boats on dry dock at the Gulf Marina Shipyard at Bayou Cadet on Friday.

The new facility just opened last week and is something our area needed for many years.

The fishermen are getting their vessels ready for when the shrimping season opens.

It is good to have such a facility in Hancock County since fishermen now can have their boats in dry dock without having to travel to Louisiana or Jackson County.

Since many of them do their own routine repairs, this really makes it more convenient for them to work on their vessels closer to home.

Only one week is left until Easter Sunday.

There will be Easter Sunrise Services in the area.

One will be the annual Community Sunrise Service on the lawn of Christ Episcopal Church in Bay St. Louis at 6:30 a.m. The services are sponsored by the ministers of the community's churches.

Donuts and coffee will be served by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce following the services.

We hope to see you at the sunrise service next Sunday.

The People's Business

Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

ANOTHER OPPORTUNITY SLIPPED AWAY

The final gavel has been dropped on the 1987 session of the Mississippi Legislature. And, with the banging of the gavel goes another missed opportunity to move the state ahead economically.

The issue this time was tort reform.

Putting it plainly, we are driving business out of the state and the Legislature, which could have corrected the problem, simply closed its eyes.

Actually, eyes were closed in House judiciary committees. The Senate did what it could; it approved six tort reform bills. And, members of the House of Representatives not on the judiciary committees never were given the chance to correct the problem.

This is the problem: At least 46 percent of the businesses in the state have been forced to make decisions adversely affecting their own growth, and affecting the economic advancement of the state, because of their exposure to liability lawsuits.

These businesses have said, in a statewide survey, that they are being required to pass up investment opportunities, delay new products and services, reduce the number of employees, and in some cases, move out of Mississippi, because of unusually severe exposure to the threat of liability lawsuits.

The Legislature could have relieved the exposure by reducing the statute of limitations, providing penalties for the filing of frivolous lawsuits, and eliminating joint and several liability which makes a defendant only minimally responsible for damages totally liable.

The word is out on Mississippi. Businesses are required to operate here in what one manufacturer has called a "litigation-prone environment."

We let another economic development opportunity slip away.

By contrast, legislators in at least 39 other states have taken corrective action by enacting needed tort reforms.

Housekeeping

Weekly Summary
from
Mississippi House of Representatives

By Andrew Reese
House Information Officer

A $1.6 billion general fund budget was approved and legislative action completed last week on several major bills as state lawmakers worked to end the 1987 session.

Most of the attention in the closing week was on appropriations and adoption of conference reports on general bills previously sent to House-Senate conference committees to resolve differences between the chambers.

More than 135 appropriation bills were approved to fund state agencies, institutions and departments in the coming year. Overall, the allocations from the state's general fund amount to $1.6 billion for the fiscal year starting July 1, 1987, and include increases for education at all levels, Medicaid and other health-related programs, and other essential needs.

The additional funding was accomplished without a general tax increase, although legislators did approve a boost in motor fuel taxes to help finance a major four-lane road program, one of the top bills of the 1987 session.

The largest appropriation, as usual, was for support of Mississippi's public schools, amounting to $622 million which includes funds for a $1,000 salary increase for school teachers.

This is the third installment in the $4,400 teacher pay package authorized in the 1985 session. Other major funding bills involving education included $40 million for kindergartens, $155 million for general support of the state's universities and $56.8 million for junior colleges.

Money was provided to give 5.5 percent salary increases to faculty and staff members at the universities and junior colleges, but it was left to the institutions to determine how to use the funds.

The Legislature approved pay raises for state employees amounting to 4 percent or $75 a month, whichever is greater. This guarantees at least an annual $900 raise for all workers under the state personnel system. It was the first general pay increase for state employees since the 1985 session.

In addition to the funding bills, the Legislature approved a compromise plan last week to expand Medicaid eligibility to include pregnant women living at the federal poverty level and their infants.

The measure is part of efforts to reduce the state's high infant mortality rate. The measure also raises the number of Medicaid-covered hospital days for children, provides additional funds for hospitals serving a disproportionate share of low-income patients, and continues a home and community-based services pilot program.

The State Board of Health was authorized to coordinate planning for a regionalized system of perinatal services. Another bill was approved to establish a school nurse intervention program aimed at helping reduce teen pregnancies and sex-related diseases among young people.

A $56.6 million bond issue was authorized to finance prison construction, including two 500-man maximum security units at Parchman and a 500-man medium security facility to be located in Greene County.

The stack of other bills pending final approval last week included measures to create a new program to assist Mississippi farmers; provide for the Department of Natural Resources to monitor groundwater supplies and quality; modernize the state's business laws; extend sovereign immunity to protect governmental units from damage suits for another year; raise the compulsory school attendance age to 16 by the 1989-1990 school year; protect crime victims' rights by providing for district attorneys to hire special assistants to work with crime victims, and creating an escrow account in the state treasury for crime victims; authorize courts to order blood tests in paternity cases; and extend maximum leases on most 16th Section School lands from 25 to 40 years.

It was a week packed with emotion. Speaker C. B. "Buddie" Newman officially announced he would not seek another term after serving as a member of the Legislature since 1949 and permanent Speaker of the House of Representatives since 1978.

House members joined in expressing sorrow over the death of the five students in the tragic traffic mishap at the University of Mississippi. And special ceremonies were held in memory of two House members who died in recent months, Representatives Robert Anderson of Wesson and Guy Williams of Drew.

Racial discrimination persists in Bay St. Louis alcohol outlet

To the Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir,
Modern Mississippi?

This past weekend I've experienced an unfortunate incident even now in 1987. A visiting friend and I walked into Benigno's Bar on Blaise Avenue in Bay St. Louis, apparently a place of business open to the public.

But we found it doesn't cater to the "general public."

Other than my friend and I, there were only three patrons present. I ordered two beers, and we were told we would not be allowed to stay and drink in the place.

I was totally embarrassed, first for my friend to experience such as this, then shocked to see that such invidious attitudes are portrayed even now.

We as one people supposedly in a growing community should come together with new ideas to help Bay St. Louis prosper.

There is no need in this day nor ever to continue to practice and display such racial inequalities.

I pray and ask God to touch all of our lives and to please remove such an injustice.

The need to develop Mississippi's highways: an overriding factor

Mississippi has a tremendous need to improve our roads, our interstate system and our bridges.

In that connection, the Mississippi Legislature just passed a major highway bill, and last week both the House of Representatives and the Senate voted to override the President's veto of the $97.5 billion federal highway and mass transit bill.

The federal bill included an estimated $126.7 million for the maintenance and repair of highways in Mississippi and earmarked $16.5 million for the four-laning of a 14.7 mile stretch of U.S. 90 from just south of Hattiesburg to New Augusta.

The coupling of the state's new highway plan with these federal funds could prompt the most aggressive highway development seen in Mississippi in many years.

That is one of the main reasons I voted to override the President's veto of the highway bill. Most of the funds in the bill came from the Highway Trust Fund—those gasoline taxes earmarked for highway development—and not from general revenue tax dollars.

In his veto argument, the President correctly stated that the overall highway bill cost too much money and that there were too many mass transit projects funded from general revenues instead of the Highway Trust Fund.

But for Mississippi especially, we needed a highway bill. In Washington, we always go through the squabble over federal priorities in spending. We argue over how much to spend on agriculture, the preservation of our parks and health care, and oftentimes, I believe the government involves itself in programs it should not.

In the order of priorities of the federal government, I get the construction and maintenance of our highways pretty high up on the list. Highway and bridge construction has to do with safety, health, interstate transportation, the development of rural areas and the creation of jobs. Without decent highways, there will not be industrial development.

I listened to the President's argument against this bill, but in the final analysis, I felt it addressed a real need for us in Mississippi.

Lives would be saved and injuries prevented as a result of the improvements which would be made on U.S. 90. Throughout our state, road construction means the creation of jobs.

Another key consideration was that the defeat of this bill at this time would have sent it back for a difficult rewrite process that would have taken weeks, not days, and could have threatened the institution of the 65 mile-per-hour speed limit on some federal highways.

In the end, all these factors combined to make highways an overriding need for Mississippi.

DREAMS

Q. What's the difference between a dream and a nightmare or night terror? Do any of these mean anything?

A. A dream is an order of ideas, thoughts, emotions, images or memories, often repressed from consciousness, which passes through our minds during the rapid eye movement (REM) stage of sleep.

REM sleep is characterized by heart and breathing patterns similar to those which occur during wakefulness.

It's one of five stages of sleep and occurs after alternating stages of moderate and deep sleep; approximately every 90 minutes.

Nightmares also occur during REM sleep, but night terrors characterized by abrupt and frightening awakenings at night—occur in the third and fourth deep sleep stages.

Dreams are thought to be made of unfinished business in daily life. Intense dreams may represent deeply felt conflicts or events. Some people dream in color, while others dream in black and white. Everybody dreams; often for long periods during the night. Those who feel that they don't dream, simply tend not to remember them.

Some psychotherapists consider dream content to be an important factor in therapy. They feel that a person's dream life is a window into his unconscious mind and that it can be used to help people understand and thoughts and feelings expressed in dreams by using free association and other techniques.

Scientists who study dreams say that many dream images are universal within a specific culture. For example, doors tend to represent passageways to some kind of change.

A dream about several people may be a way of looking at several aspects of one's own personality—each person may be a different side of the dreamer.

Dreaming about animals may represent certain sides of the personality, too. A cuddly animal which turns into a ferocious monster may be a way of showing unexpressed anger about some conflict. Dreams also may represent unfulfilled wishes.

The less pleasant side of dreaming is the nightmare or night terror. The difference in the two is that a nightmare occurs during a different sleep stage—in that nightmare, the dreamer awakens the next day, and the dreamer usually is made of the dreamer's own mind, sometimes with a twist.

Weekly State Crop Report

Corn planting under way with frequent rain delays

Corn planting is under way in the state but rains have slowed producers' efforts to get the crop planted on schedule.

In south Mississippi, recommended planting dates are from Feb. 25 to March 15, said Dr. Lamar Kimbrough, an agronomist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"Last week southern producers were well on their way to completing corn planting, but heavy rains stopped field work and probably washed out some fields," Kimbrough said.

Stone County agent George Weaver reports that approximately 30 percent of the county's corn crop has been planted, but, "some farmers are facing 'corn planting time' and due to a lack of financing simply don't have the money right now to put in a crop."

"I imagine," he said, "that after 10 days or so when this weather dries up those who can will get their crops in."

Kimbrough added that if the weather cooperates and producers get to follow through with their planting intentions, more than 250,000 acres of corn, including silage could be planted this year.

Last year, producers planted 200,000 acres of corn and reached a record state average of 78 bushels per acre.

In related agriculture news, county extension agents throughout the state report corn planting is slow due to wet fields.

In Pike County in southern Mississippi, Extension agent Paul Singleton said crops that are already planted are looking good but early in the week, rains forced corn producers to stop planting.

In central Mississippi, Newton County Agent Henry D. Morgan said producers will begin planting corn immediately if fields remain dry.

In north Mississippi, Lee County Extension Agent Jackie Courson said farmers are anxious about corn planting.

"Last year at this time we had several hundred acres planted," Courson said.

Basket weaving demonstration scheduled

The Kiln Public Library on Hwy. 90 will host a basket weaving demonstration Tuesday, April 21, 10 a.m. until noon.

Beverly Rocks, who studied basket weaving in Virginia, will demonstrate the various techniques and stages of making baskets.

Rocks will also have samples of the many types of baskets including hinye, egg, melon, cloth and potato baskets, many of which are made with natural materials.

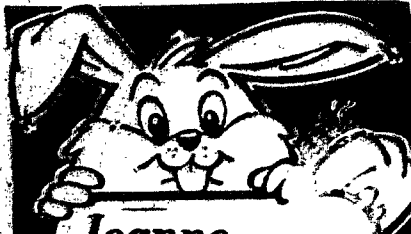

Anyone interested in attending the basket weaving demonstration is asked to call the Kiln Library Tuesday or Thursday between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. or Friday between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. at 255-1724.

Part Three in a series about renting

Consumer Update

By Janet K. Lukens
Coast Consumer
Management Center

The Tenant's Point of View..... Renting a home is an important and time-consuming part of moving. After you've searched frantically through listings of houses that meet your requirements and your budget, signed your rental agreement, and paid all your deposits, you might think that you're ready to move in.

At this point, a discrepancy inspection (one in which all damages to the property are noted) may seem to be an unnecessary bother, but taking the time before you move in could save your security deposit when you prepare to move out.

The importance of a good discrepancy list becomes apparent at the end of the rental period. Upon moving out, you and your landlord can go through the house with your list and decide whether any defects were your fault or were preexisting conditions.

Little things can make a big difference in whether or not you get your deposit refunded.

Many landlords provide an inspection report form as a guideline for you. If one is not provided, it is in your best interest to purchase a standard guide form available at most business supply stores or prepare a problem list of your own.

It is also a good idea to go through the inspection tour with your landlord so that you may agree on discrepancies or needed repairs to the property. Be prepared to use additional sheets if necessary to record all the information.

When describing an item's general condition, use descriptive terms such as excellent, good, fair and poor. Be specific in noting the location of any defects or damages.

If several of the same types of problems (such as stains or holes) exist in a given area, mark down the approximate number of defects.

Since the discrepancy inspection that could mean the difference between a refunded deposit or a forfeited one, it is important to inspect the following.

Note the approximate age and condition of the dwelling. Survey all flooring for cleanliness and general condition. If carpeted, note the type of carpet in each room while checking for stains, spots, holes or bare spots.

On linoleum or tile, check for stains, burns, and loose or poorly-fitted tiles. For hardwood floors, check for stains, scratches, and warped or damaged boards.

Next, look to the ceilings for stains, holes, or cobwebs while noting any burned-out bulbs. Check for cracks and dirt in ceiling lights and fixtures. Since some landlords deduct money from your security deposit if ceiling globes are not cleaned before you move out, they should be clean when you move in.

When inspecting the walls, note the general location and condition of paneling, paint or wallpaper. Note scrapes, marks, peeling paper or paint, and nails or nail holes. Also record if any tape has been left on the walls. Inspect outlets and switches to make sure they are safe and secure in the walls. Examine heating ducts for cleanliness and damage.

Next, check all the doors to be sure they close, latch and lock properly, and are not scratched or otherwise damaged. Inspect screen doors for tears or holes.

Examine the condition of the walls around doorways. An opened door that is slammed into a wall can cause much damage, including having a doorknob make a hole in the adjoining wall.

Scrutinize your windows for general cleanliness, scratches, and cracks. Make sure that all windows open and close properly. All window screens should be properly installed, clean and free of tears or holes.

If your landlord provides drapes or curtains, make sure they are clean and free of marks and tears.

Now inspect the closet for marks and cleanliness. Check to make sure that the closet rods and shelves are secure and undamaged and that the closet doors open and close properly.

In the bathroom, look to see if the tile and grout around the tub, shower, and sink is complete. Be sure the porcelain is clean, noting any stains in the toilet, and that the towel and shower rods are secure and undamaged.

Check and see if the plumbing fixtures are complete. The water faucets should work without dripping, and vanity drawers and counters should be complete and free from damage.

The kitchen deserves special attention. Check to make sure that all plumbing and fixtures are undamaged and the sink doesn't drip. The sink and countertops should be free of stains, scratches and damage.

Make certain that all cabinets and drawers open and close properly, and that all hardware, such as knobs and handles, is complete.

The oven and broiler pans should be clean and free of baked-on food. The oven and stove should also be complete, not missing any knobs or dials.

Make sure that all major appliances work and are free of defect. Check the fireplace for cleanliness because a chimney clogged with soot can cause a fire and damage the landlord's property and your possessions.

Note the condition of the lawn, fencing, and concrete. Also, while noting housing discrepancies, note any moveable items that belong to your landlord. Include such items as drapes, broiler pans, and hoses. Such a list could save a lot of argument when you vacate the premises.

Once the inspection is completed, make sure that you and your landlord sign and retain a copy of the problem list.

You'll find that the time you've taken for a thorough inspection will reward you with a better understanding between you and your landlord and will help you reclaim most, if not all, of your security deposit.

The crawfish, a little ever-so-sweet, is a little bit of a pain to cook, but it's worth it. It's so fond of boiled, it's almost impossible to make them any other way. I keep on thinking, "I'm cooking the crawfish all the time." "Stouffee" - ay-ay-ay, it means just "smothered" and it's a way of cooking seafood, poultry, less tender cuts of meat and so on - a technique which Creole and Cajun cooks have brought to perfection through the years, cooking the crawfish or other food slowly, slowly over a low flame in a heavy, covered skillet - hence the term "smothered." Here's:

CRAWFISH STOUFFEE
This is one of those "it depends" recipes, and ever so simple. Such recipes are often the most enjoyable, making use of what's on hand, and depending upon how much of this and that you have on hand, and what you want to do with it.

At any rate, after you have eaten your fill of crawfish for the time being, and have managed to keep some on hand, check the amount of cleaned crawfish tails left. (You may, of course decide to buy a pound or so of cleaned crawfish at the market!)

For each pound of the meat, you need several green onions, with their tops, chopped coarsely, along with dashes of pepper, and of hot pepper sauce, also a little oil and some bright fresh parsley for garnishing.

Pour into your heavy skillet just enough oil to film the bottom of the pot and heat until it just starts to smoke. Toss in the chopped onions -

Essex appoints regional engineer

Essex Communications Corp., operators of the cable TV system in Hancock County, recently appointed William H. Hicks as regional engineer for its Carolina Region, working out of regional headquarters in Hendersonville, N.C.

Hicks is responsible for the technical operations of all eight systems operated by Essex Cable TV in the region, as well as the design and construction of new cable plant.

Hicks, who has a BA degree from the University of Southern California, received his technical training at TV station WRDW-TV in Augusta, Ga., and during service in the U.S. Army Signal Corps, and Corps of Engineers.

He studied with the Capitol Radio Engineering Institute and the National Cable Television Institute.

After his Army service, Hicks worked for Smyrna Cablevision in Smyrna, Ga. as chief technician. He then accepted a similar position with Thoms Cable in Asheville, N.C.

Since then, he has worked as a CATV systems designer and field engineer, and prior to joining Essex, as a contract field coordinator of all outside-the-plant utilities during a complete rebuild of a 350,000 subscriber system in Austin, Texas.

Hicks resides in Hendersonville, N.C. with his wife, Susan, and son, Jamison.

Timberline

By Mark Jamieson
County Forester

Question: What do you get when you have above normal rainfall and space it at intervals of every four or five days?

Answer: Hardly any wildfires. There's been an odd whistling noise heard around fire control personnel with the Forestry Commission lately. A little investigating found it to be a cautious sigh of relief.

At the end of the month of March, in the prime of forest fire season, we have had less than a third of the fires that we had in 1986 and less than half of the five-year annual average.

You remember 1986. It was the worst fire season in five years; no appreciable rain for months; high rainfall deficit; dry, windy cold fronts; and commission fire crews stretched to the limit of their capabilities and endurance.

That memory was still very fresh when the budget ax fell last year and removed 30 fire crews from our statewide suppression force.

Rainfall remained far below normal and by early Fall everyone was holding their breath waiting for fire season to roll around and wondering how or if we could cope with another season like 1986.

Then, something happened that was in complete contrast to the previous year. It rained. A few days later it rained again, and then again. Over the past few months this pattern has been followed.

Every few days it has rained somewhere in the state or over the entire state. So far in 1987 we are running a surplus over normal rainfall.

This has resulted in only 1,321 fires statewide that have burned 20,388 acres; compared to 4,257 fires and 88,646 acres blackened at this time last year.

On only four days this year has the number of daily wildfires exceeded 100. Last year, if that number was less than 200 it was a light day.

Here in Hancock County, in March, 1987, we had 46 fires that burned 416 acres. About three-quarters of the fires and one-quarter of the acres burned in March, 1986.

This is not to say we are home free and clear, but there does appear to be some light at the end of the tunnel. March through early April is almost always the worst part of the wildfire season, but we do have a few things going for us at this time.

Almost any area capable of holding moisture has standing water in it. Last year they were almost bone dry. The rains and mild temperatures appear to be bringing on an early spring greenup.

If we do get a change in weather patterns to dry and windy, hopefully the above normal rains will give us enough of a grace period between the time things get critically dry and greenup that any severe fire period will be of short duration.

While there is still the possibility of having a "fire bust," the probability of it being very severe or of long duration is growing less each day.

Our fingers are crossed.

Community services council to ask city school board to initiate value-oriented sex education programs

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Representatives of the Hancock County Community Services Planning Council are expected to request Monday the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District initiate sex education programs.

On Thursday Council Chairman Lucy Hazuer presented to the Hancock County School Board a resolution requesting that Board also to initiate education programs to stem the increase in teenage pregnancies. Hancock board member Lennette Necaise said she works with seventh and eighth grade students and is surprised at the number of pregnancies in this age group. "I believe it is the responsibility of the school to help with this problem and will be glad to have additional programs," she said. Hazuer said she would have different sessions which offer programs to assist school officials about setting up more programs. The Bay School Board meeting will be Monday at 7 p.m.

Hancock school board accepts roofing bid

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Accepting a low bid, the Hancock North Central School Board Thursday voted to award a contract for repairs to the storm-damaged roof at Hancock North Central School.

United Roofing and Construction, Inc. of Laurel was the lowest of the five bidders for the project.

Following the opening of the bids, Architect Fred Wagner reviewed the proposals and recommended the acceptance of the low bid.

Wagner also said this total was approximately $20,000 less than the previous time this project was advertised for bids.

The work is expected to begin as soon as school is out this summer and completed before classes resume.

Also at the meeting concerned parent Lionel Hoda presented to the board a list of complaints regarding the gymnasium.

Hoda said there is definite support for a junior high school basketball program and showed the board examples of uniforms which had been bought by sponsors.

"We are just asking for a little help with the maintenance of the gymnasium and restricting the use of the facility," he said.

Several hundred students per day are in the gymnasium and it is impossible for a player to learn the basic fundamentals of basketball with hundreds of people walking around, Hoda added.

Other problems Hoda reported include not enough storage space, poor condition of the gym floors, the need for repairs to shower facilities so players can take showers after the games, need for cleanup after the games by someone other than the coaches and the need of a trophy case in gym so trophies can be displayed.

School Board President Frank Miller told Hoda he would personally investigate each complaint and would seek to have any necessary maintenance at the gymnasium completed.

Board Member Billie Faye Lyons reported at the meeting two Hancock North Central Elementary School teachers will attend the Washington Conference '87.

Shirley Shaw received the invitation to the conference from Congressman Trent Lott and invited teacher Sharon Moran to go as her guest.

At this event they will personally visit with President Ronald Reagan, meet with a Justice of the United States Supreme Court and have an opportunity to questions of Congressional leaders.

minutes and then became a public record. Rocky Hill resident Rodney Reeves then questioned how the petition got out Friday morning.

"I was called early Friday morning by someone who had signed the petition and had been contacted by a person with a copy of the petition who was asking them (the signer) to remove their name," Reeves said.

The school board met at 8 a.m. Monday morning and along with accepting the petition, the board also accepted a counter-petition containing the signatures of 36 persons who wanted their names removed from the petition against the school bond issue.

Cook

"If I'm worried about my fee, how can I worry about defending the city?"

He said he wants to continue as city prosecutor but wants "a hard and fast arrangement" about his fee.

According to Mayor John Longo Jr., the board set aside a specific amount of money in the budget for the prosecutor's office. "Your cost has been escalating for some time. Maybe we have more crime," the mayor said.

Cook said he feels that the cost escalations are merely a reflection of a heavier case load, particularly in view of the police department's currently strong emphasis on DUI arrests.

Longo said the city still can not afford more cost escalation.

"I run a business here. I can not allow costs escalation to continue to the point where only one man is being paid and that's the prosecutor," He suggested that Cook contribute "a little community work."

"I'm not trying to put a price tag on justice. We want you to bring in justice and we know it costs money, but these are small cities we're running here," the mayor added.

"I do expect some community work and some civic pride in this. You are rapidly becoming the highest paid employee in this city. Cook said he is particularly concerned that fewer appeals will actually be taken to court if the city will not pay attorney's fees. He said he feels almost all DUI defendants will appeal if they believe the case will never actually go to Circuit Court.

Cook said he has proposed alternate ways of handling his fees in the past, but those options were rejected by the board. He asked that other fee arrangements be reconsidered.

Longo agreed to consider optional fee arrangements during the next few months while the aldermen work on the budget for fiscal year 1987-88, which begins in October.

In other business, the aldermen: —Discussed but took no action on assisting Coastal Family Health Centers with a building for a Waveland location, pending receipt of a state attorney general's opinion.

—Agreed to provide the Hancock County Library System with $6,311 in matching funds for a grant that will fund the first phase of planned expansions at the system's central facility on Ulman Avenue and US-90; and —Took bids for a utility tractor and a copy machine under advisement.

The board meets again at 7:30 p.m. April 22 at Waveland City Hall.

DUMESTRE HONORED—C.J. Dumestre Jr. of Waveland accepts a certificate of recognition from Waveland Mayor John Longo Jr. at Tuesday's meeting of the board of aldermen, honoring him for his service as the city's representative on the Hancock County Animal Commission. Dumestre, presently chairman of the commission, has been appointed as a representative for Hancock County. In accepting the certificate, Dumestre commended the mayor and board for their assistance in establishing the Hancock County Animal Shelter 15 years ago. (Staff photo by Dena Bissette)

Second man charged in FEMA assistance fraud

Hancock County Sheriff's Office has arrested a second Shoreline Park man for charges of fraud in obtaining disaster assistance from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) as a result of damage done by Hurricane Elena.

Ernest Saucier, 113 Central Ave., Bay St. Louis was released from Hancock County jail on Thursday under $3,500 bond.

Saucier received temporary housing rental assistance and then submitted false receipts, according to the sheriff's office and FEMA investigators.

Saucier also received house repair and household item money. He did not repair the house and submitted false receipts for household items, said Alvin Ladner, Hancock County investigator who was assisted in the case by agents of FEMA.

Saucier is the second person arrested in Hancock County in a series of investigations directed by the FEMA Inspector General's office in Atlanta, Ga. and Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson.

Manuel Canto of Shoreline Park was arrested last month on a similar charge, according to the sheriff.

statements from citizens concerned about the situation, Lang said.

She added that the NAACP does not plan to restrict its assistance to black teachers.

"We will help anyone, black or white, because we are concerned about our educational system and we know this involves their livelihood," Lang stated.

Three of the district's four administrators stated Friday that they were never officially notified how many teachers at their schools are involved and know only speculative figures being spread through rumors. A fourth administrator was not available for a telephone interview.

James Baldree, principal at Waveland Elementary School, said he feels the situation is affecting teacher morale.

"Teacher morale at this point is very low. I think it's safe to say at this point that parents recognize this, students recognize this, and it is having some effect," Baldree said.

Bay Junior High Principal W.J. Cameron could not answer the same question.

"Right now it's hard to tell because no one is saying anything," Cameron explained.

A teacher who asked not to be identified said she is disturbed by the rumors, particularly because she had not told anyone she had received one of the letters.

"I definitely feel my privacy has been invaded. I have not talked to any people at all, but my name is all over the place anyway," she explained.

She said she has not yet obtained a reason for failure to renew her contract, although she has obtained legal representation and requested a hearing.

"I don't know whether I have actually done something I'm not aware of, something has been fabricated or it's based on hearsay," she stated.

Quick start convenience seafoods make cooking easier

A multitude of ready-to-eat seafood products tempt us at each turn to the market. These convenience foods are ideal for quick and easy entertaining. Most have good keeping qualities, making them a good idea to keep a selection in the cupboard and refrigerator. All are ready to serve.

Canning is an excellent method of preserving seafood. The product remains appetizing and wholesome for over a year. Clear glass jars give a preview of the product before purchasing. Recently, flexible pouches are starting to replace the traditional rigid can for seafood.

Here is a sampling of the vast number of convenience seafoods available.

Pickled Herring

Herring fillets are skinned and boned, then cured in a sweet brine. After cutting into chunks, the pickled herring is packed in a wine sauce. It is great on the smorgasbord or in a sandwich of thin sliced, buttered rye bread. Pickled herring is generally sold in small jars in the refrigerator case.

Pickled Mussels

Small blue mussels are marinated in a spicy vinegar brine and packed in small shelled jars or cans. Mussels are rich in vitamins, minerals. They are delicious served with rye crackers as an appetizer or make a pasta salad by adding pickled mussels to cooked pasta along with olive oil, herbs and garlic.

Shrimp Cocktail

A savory mixture of tiny, cold water shrimp and a well-seasoned tomato based cocktail sauce is also found in the refrigerator case. One 4-ounce jar makes a generous single serving or extend the mixture with shredded lettuce, tomato wedges, pitted olives etc. to make two shrimp cocktail salads.

For a quick hors d'oeuvre, pour shrimp in cocktail sauce over softened cream cheese and serve with crackers. The mixture can also be gently heated and spooned over broiled halibut steaks for an attractive entree; garnish with lemon wedges. And shrimp cocktail makes great picnic food.

Caviar

Caviar is the processed, salted roe of sturgeon, lumpfish, whitefish, salmon or other fish. Adding a touch of luxury to any occasion, caviar ranges in price from luxurious to very affordable.

Imported sturgeon caviars (beluga, ossetra and sevruga) are the most expensive. Keep fresh caviar under refrigeration and use promptly. Vacuum-packed, pasteurized caviar can be stored in a cool, dark place for up to three months.

American sturgeon caviar from the Mississippi River and tributaries is less expensive than the imported varieties. Mild and tangy, it is medium grained and pearly gray black. Traditionally, sturgeon caviar is served on ice with toast and lemon wedges.

Lumpfish caviar from Artic waters resembles sturgeon caviar in appearance. Distinctively flavored, its small eggs are black, red or golden. Lumpfish caviar is the least expensive. Try it with cream cheese on crackers or serve it with blini (small buckwheat pancake).

Salmon caviar from the North Pacific is recognizable by its large translucent red/orange grains. Attractive and flavorful, salmon roe and sour cream make an excellent omelet filling.

Whitefish caviar from the Northern Great Lakes is small grained and mild flavor. The roe is either black or golden. Serve as a garnish for stuffed eggs.

A tasty caviar appetizer combines caviar and its traditional accompaniments in an easy to serve spread. Combine a small jar of caviar, 1/2 cup sour cream, 1 or 2 tablespoons chopped onion, 1 chopped hard-cooked egg, and 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley. Mix together and serve on crackers. If there happens to be any left over, it makes a wonderful topping for baked potatoes.

Sardines

Sardines are commercially fished off the Maine coast as well as other parts of the Atlantic. They are canned in vegetable oil or water packed for lower calories. Nutritionally sardines rate high as they contain calcium, protein, vitamin B-12, and unsaturated omega-III fatty acids. Serve sardines for snacks or make a Danish-style open face sandwich by buttering firm, dark bread, spreading with mustard and topping with thinly sliced tomato and whole or halved sardines.

Smoked Fish

The two primary methods of smoking fish are cold-smoked and hot-smoked (or hard-smoked). First the prepared fish is placed in a mild brine, then drained. Cold smoking is done slowly at temperatures no higher than 95°F. and the finished fish is not cooked.

Hot-smoking, which cooks the fish as well as smokes it, takes place between temperatures of 150 and 180 degrees. Special hard woods, such as alder, apple and cherry, are often used for slow, even smoking; each gives the fish a distinctive taste.

Smoked fish is marketed in several forms. When sold fresh at a fish counter, it is perishable and should be consumed soon after purchase. Frozen smoked fish is similar to fresh; its texture and flavor are best when it is thawed slowly in the refrigerator.

Smoked Sablefish

Sablefish, also called black cod or butterfish, is a moist, succulent white fish with a rich, distinctive flavor and tender texture. Because it is high in oil it is especially good smoked. Smoked sablefish is available in lightly cold-smoked portions, ranging from 4 to 8 ounces, or as a hot-smoked product.

To cook cold-smoked sablefish fillets to serve as an entree, steam over boiling water or grill allowing 10 minutes cooking time per inch of thickness. Serve hot with tiny hot new potatoes and lemon wedges.

Smoked Salmon

All five species of Pacific salmon (king, coho, red sockeye, pink and chum) and Atlantic Salmon are commercially smoked using hot and cold-smoked methods. Both vacuum sealed, heat treated pouches and the traditional cans can be stored at cool temperatures for several months.

Smoked salmon is perfect served as an appetizer or snack. To make a simple smoked salmon spread, blend 4 ounces smoked salmon, 3 ounces cream cheese and 1 or 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Serve on crackers or crusty French bread.

Smoked Whitefish

Whitefish is a mild-flavored fresh water fish with white flesh. It is harvested primarily in the Great Lakes and the lakes of Canada and ranges from 1 to 3 pounds and larger. It is fairly oily and is usually hot-smoked whole.

The meat is firm, but creamy and the flavor is excellent. Smoked whitefish is usually sold whole or in half portions at the deli case. Serve chunks of the white meat with lettuce, tomato and onion or serve with bagels and cream cheese as part of a Sunday brunch.

Smoked Chub

A small fish in the same family as whitefish, Chub is found in the Great Lakes. It is hot-smoked and sold whole, usually in the deli case. Chub is similar in flavor to whitefish. Allow one 6 to 10 ounce smoked chub per person. Great for nibbling or serve with hot toast for lunch.

Clubs, Auxiliaries

Bay St. Louis Junior Auxiliary

At the regular monthly meeting of the Bay St. Louis Junior Auxiliary April 6 final plans were made for a Provisional Tea to be held April 22 at 7:30 p.m. Plans were also made for an installation banquet scheduled for April 30 at 6:30 p.m. at the Landmark Restaurant.

Gulf Coast 8 and 40

By Dr. Nathan Ochsman

Mrs. Evelyn Burt, president, presided over the April meeting of the Harrison County Chapter of the Gulf Coast 8 and 40 Club at the home of Mrs. Burt.

The social program was a very enjoyable one. Mrs. Burt, president, presided over the April meeting of the Harrison County Chapter of the Gulf Coast 8 and 40 Club at the home of Mrs. Burt.

A letter was read from Mrs. Burt, National Demo Chapter of the Southern Division and a partner of this Salon, urging all Salons to make quota in membership by May 1.

Dr. Ochsman reported sending out get well, sympathy and birthday cards to our partners.

Mrs. Bernice Eche made a motion to send a donation to Cystic Fibrosis Foundation in Jackson. Motion carried.

The general public has no idea what the 8 and 40 is all about. It was organized in 1922 by a number of American Legion Auxiliary women including the first national president and first national secretary at the National Executive meeting in Indianapolis.

The first National March was held in New Orleans, La. the same year. The very first Petit Salon was organized in Cook County, Illinois.

Recognition of the 8 and 40 as an affiliated organization was approved by the American Legion in convention in October 1925. Recognition of the 8 and 40 was ratified at a special meeting in 1927.

The objectives of the 8 and 40 as set forth in the Constitution are fun, fellowship and service. Special service was designated to the American Legion and the Auxiliary to Child Welfare in the field of Juvenile Tuberculosis Prevention, Cystic Fibrosis and respiratory illnesses.

Membership in 8 and 40 is limited to women who have been members in good standing of American Legion Auxiliary for 36 consecutive months and who have served as elective officers, chairman of standing committees or served as major activities committees. Then the member is invited to join the ranks of 8 and 40.

Another important phase of service is the nurses' scholarship. If a nurse wishes to advance her studies in the field of T.B. and cystic fibrosis the 8 and 40 will pay for this extra training. You may contact any member of 8 and 40 and they will furnish you with an application. It is a very rewarding service.

Hancock Women's Club

The Hancock Women's Club met at the Waveland Library on Thursday, April 9 with president Lois Crippie presiding.

Theda Fisher was welcomed into the club as a new member. A "Bingwich" was announced as the club's next activity, to be held at the home of Ruth Gallagher, 333 Terrace St., Waveland, at 11:30 a.m., Thursday, April 23.

Members and guests are asked to bring a white elephant which will serve as prizes for the games played.

A luncheon consisting of a sandwich, cookies, apple and drink will be offered for a small charge.

Outdoor games will be held from 2 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, May 1 at the home of Mrs. Crippie, 444 Main St., Bay St. Louis. Baked goods, craft projects, and other items will be sold. A raffle drawing will be held on Saturday, May 1 at 3 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Crippie.

The door prize will be donated to a charitable organization.

Refreshments will be provided by Mrs. Laska, the club secretary. A social program will be held at the home of Mrs. Crippie on Saturday, May 1 at 3 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Crippie.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday, May 14 at the King Wah Chinese Restaurant in Bay St. Louis.

Pass Christian Garden Club

Members of the Pass Christian Garden Club elected new officers at their picnic meeting April 2 in Memorial Park. They will be installed at the May 7 luncheon and are as follows:

Mrs. Robert E. Doe, president; Mrs. Warren Schulz, first vice president; Mrs. Gordon E. Bishop, second vice president; and Mrs. Robert Campbell, recording secretary.

Also, Mrs. John Drevar, corresponding secretary; Mrs. A. H. Lasseigne, treasurer; Mrs. Anthony Heibel, historian; and Mrs. Dan Sentilles, parliamentarian.

Jean Heibel, Flower Show chairman asked that all committee members meet on Wednesday, April 15 at 10 a.m. at her home to wrap up the plans and details of this annual Flower Show.

The show will be held Thursday, April 23 in the Hancock Bank Annex. Mrs. Heibel discussed the importance of having arrangements completed and horticulture entries ready to be placed in their respective settings upon arrival. The public is invited to attend the flower show, entitled "The Good Earth." Welcome hours are from 2 to 5 p.m.

Elizabeth Hedgepath updated the plans for a bus trip to Longvue Gardens in New Orleans. Although a definite date has not been set, it will be after Easter. Marion Spillman, chairman, will accept reservations by phone at her home after 5 p.m. Members interested in this trip are urged to call Mrs. Spillman right away.

Mr. Bill Cole of Biloxi, whose specialty is Civil War attire and music, entertained the group with songs of the South which was enjoyed and well received.

Hostesses for the meeting were Evelyn Schmid, Jessie McKay, Dale Santos and Yvette Roluf.

Pass Christian Art Association

The Pass Christian Art Association's Art Program on the third Wednesday of the month will feature this month the French Impressionists and the Post Impressionists. It is open free of charge to the general public between 2 and 3 p.m. on Wednesday, April 15 at the library, 111 Hiern Ave. north of City Hall in Pass Christian.

The slides are reproductions of art works from museums in Paris and Tourmal, France; Cleveland, Chicago, Washington, Cambridge, United States; Munich, Germany; Stockholm, Sweden; London, England, with commentary from writings by Albert Chatelet, director of the Lille Museum in France.

The Post Impressionist slides are from the Louvre, Galleries of the Jeu de Paumes, also the National Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C.; the Art Institute of Chicago; the Baltimore Museum of Art; the Philadelphia Museum of Art; the Albright-Knox Gallery, Buffalo, N.Y.; the A. Conger Goodyear Collection of N.Y.; the Yale University Art Gallery, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York; the Rijksmuseum Kröller-Müller, Otterlo, the Netherlands; the Royal Museums of Fine Arts, Antwerp, Belgium; and the Kunstmuseum, Zurich, Switzerland.

Friendship Oak Chapter, NS DAR

Wade Guice, Harrison County Civil Defense director, addressed members of the Friendship Oak Chapter NS DAR when that group met on Wednesday noon at the Long Beach Ramada Inn.

Mrs. Robert C. Williams served as hostess.

Guice was introduced by Joe Pilet, a chapter member, who told the group that Guice had recently received the Distinguished Service Award for hurricane preparedness. The award was made last week in Orlando, Florida.

For about a quarter of a century Guice has served as defense director on the Mississippi Gulf Coast, and distinguished himself when Hurricane Camille hit this area in August of 1969.

Guice furnished the group with pamphlets compiled by the Federal Emergency Management Agency describing plans for protection in the nuclear age as well as a citizen's handbook covering what to do in time of natural disasters and a nuclear attack.

"We must preserve this nation," Guice said, who described the fallout shelters, also a highly technical electronic system costing $30,000 which was developed in Pass Christian.

Guice lauded the success of teamwork and said, "I accept recognition as a member of a team—not as an individual."

"Keep calm," was Guice's advice when asked how to handle a hurricane situation. He said there is about a three-day warning period. Time enough to think the problem through and decide the safest and best way to respond. Boarding up the home was recommended when practical, and Guice said citizens should evacuate low-lying areas when requested to do so by civil defense workers.

Evacuation routes, fallout shelters, and other precautions against natural disasters were on maps, plans, drawing boards, etc. and Guice expressed confidence in the ability of the civil defense system.

Mrs. George Cassis of Diamondhead gave a report on Star Wars, reading excerpts from the National Defender magazine.

The recording secretary's report was read by Mrs. Hazel Erhardt and approved as read.

Chapter Regent James R. Thomas announced that the May 9 meeting of the group would begin at 11:30 a.m. at the Ramada Inn with a program entitled "Continental Congress." Delegates from the Congress will take part in the program.

There will be no chapter meetings during June, July and August, but committee chairpersons will hold meetings as needed, she said.

MR. AND MRS. FRANCIS (TUBB) FAVRE

Favre-Williams

Marie Williams and Francis (Tubb) Favre Sr. exchanged wedding vows March 15 in an afternoon ceremony at the Kiln Veterans of Foreign Wars hall. Judge Joseph Dobson performed the outdoor ceremony.

The bride arrived in a horse driven carriage, escorted by Hugo Favre, brother of the groom. The groom arrived in the same manner and was escorted by Charlie Henley Jr.

Parents of the couple are the late Xavier and Lucretia Ladner and the late Nick and Viola Favre.

Given in marriage by her son, Kenneth Ray Warren Sr., the bride chose a formal gown of pale blue accented with a matching lace jacket and portrait hat trimmed with silk roses.

Sheree Warren of Pass Christian, granddaughter of the bride, was honor attendant. She wore a formal gown of royal blue satin featuring layered white ruffles cascading down the side. A white hat completed her ensemble and she carried long stemmed white roses.

Francis (Tommy) Favre Jr. of Gulfport served his father as best man.

Janice Holley, niece of the bride, cut the wedding cake, which was made by Charlotte Banks. Music for the reception was provided by "Mississippi Pride".

Also assisting at the reception were Eva Gay Cuevas, Gayle Ladner, Sheree Ladner, Marsha Parker, Tina Roundtree, Brad Roundtree, Robbie Ladner and Leslie Archer, all of Pass Christian. The couple will reside in Pass Christian.

FOURTH BIRTHDAY—Charles Michael Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Cox of Milton, Vt. celebrated his fourth birthday April 1. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jake Jacob of Bay St. Louis.

CELEBRATES SIXTH—Lucinda Pernicaro, daughter of Joseph L. and Teresa Pernicaro, recently celebrated her sixth birthday with classmates from St. Clare School at a surprise party at Dairy Queen in Waveland.

ETV Briefs

SCHOOL SUPPORT

The importance of community support of education is the subject of a new series of ETV's "The Way Up" series. The series will be rebroadcast at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, April 12. The program will be seen again at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, April 19.

Three speakers will serve as panelists in the program: Dr. Robert M. Smith of the Jackson School District, Dr. Johnny Arnold of the Bolivar County School District No. 4, and Bill Rivers of the Tupelo Separate School District.

A mini-documentary that was shot at Meridian High School is included in the program. It features the school's Honor Achievement company, which illustrates the partnership between business and education.

Topics to be discussed include: Adult-School programs and community support projects fostered by civic groups, parents, individuals and agencies.

WHY TAKE LESS AND PAY MORE?

I grill my teeth when you say, "Aren't all perms the same?" NO. Mine are better because I make an art of perms. A perm is a four-time yearly occasion for most. You have to live with your perm at least a quarter of a year. Doesn't it make sense to assure yourself of a lovelier three months by patronizing a professional? I have many happy customers who say it does. Let me give your perm this supreme styling foundation soon.

WHY TAKE LESS AND PAY MORE?

I grill my teeth when you say, "Aren't all perms the same?" NO. Mine are better because I make an art of perms. A perm is a four-time yearly occasion for most. You have to live with your perm at least a quarter of a year. Doesn't it make sense to assure yourself of a lovelier three months by patronizing a professional? I have many happy customers who say it does. Let me give your perm this supreme styling foundation soon.

The SSC is the culmination of two and a half years of research and development by the Universities Research Association in Washington D.C., and its completion will provide the United States with an opportunity to regain world leadership in scientific technology.

The Department of Energy has formally invited state governors to make site proposals as of April 1, 1967. The final location of the SSC is expected to be chosen by January of 1969.

MISSISSIPPI AND SSC

In July 1966, the U.S. Department of Energy will recognize finalists in the competition for construction of the SSC. Mississippi has a good chance of being among those finalists.

The project will contribute significantly to the economy of Mississippi, if selected. During the seven-year construction period, it is estimated that 8,100 jobs would be created and $102.8 million a year would be pumped into the state's economy. Once completed, 5,282 new permanent jobs would produce $31.5 million a year for the state.

Moreover, the state chosen for construction of the SSC project will enjoy the prestige of being the foremost world center for high-energy physics research. The international spotlight will be focused on both the scientific research being conducted in the facility and the community supporting it.

Competition for the SSC is an opportunity for Mississippi to gain credibility in the scientific arena, regardless of the outcome. If the state is chosen, the world's finest scientists, industries, and others will begin to see Mississippi in a profound, new light. Even if the state does not land the project, it will have established itself as a "new Mississippi" capable of competing for large scientific projects.

SELECTION PROCESS, DEADLINES

The Department of Energy (DOE) will be in charge of selecting the site on which to build the SSC. This selection process will be comprised of six major steps. Their descriptions and deadlines are as follows:

and directions. This information will be utilized by physicists around the world in their search for clues to the nature of matter and the forces that hold it together.

The SSC is the culmination of two and a half years of research and development by the Universities Research Association in Washington D.C., and its completion will provide the United States with an opportunity to regain world leadership in scientific technology.

The Department of Energy has formally invited state governors to make site proposals as of April 1, 1987. The final location of the SSC is expected to be chosen by January of 1989.

MISSISSIPPI AND SSC

In July 1988, the U.S. Department of Energy will recognize finalists in the competition for construction of the SSC. Mississippi has a good chance of being among those finalists.

The project will contribute significantly to the economy of Mississippi, if selected. During the seven-year construction period, it is estimated that 8,100 jobs would be created and $102.8 million a year would be pumped into the state's economy. Once completed, 5,282 new permanent jobs would produce $31.5 million a year for the state.

Moreover, the state chosen for construction of the SSC project will enjoy the prestige of being the foremost world center for high-energy physics research. The international spotlight will be focused on both the scientific research being conducted in the facility and the community supporting it.

Competition for the SSC is an opportunity for Mississippi to gain credibility in the scientific arena, regardless of the outcome. If the state is chosen, the world's finest scientists, industries, and others will begin to see Mississippi in a profound, new light. Even if the state does not land the project, it will have established itself as a "new Mississippi" capable of competing for large scientific projects.

SELECTION PROCESS, DEADLINES

The Department of Energy (DOE) will be in charge of selecting the site on which to build the SSC. This selection process will be comprised of six major steps. Their descriptions and deadlines are as follows:

1. The DOE has issued invitations for site proposals as of April 1, 1987.

MISSISSIPPI OFFICE

The dates on which the Hancock County Veterans Service office will be closed have been changed. The office will be closed Thursday and Friday, April 16 and 17 and will resume according to regular schedule April 18. Veterans Service Officer Robert Barber said.

However, the school board and the superintendent are not issuing to certified employees a blanket invitation to return.

"Four employees are being assigned to position of lesser rank due to either their own request or superintendent and board recommendation.

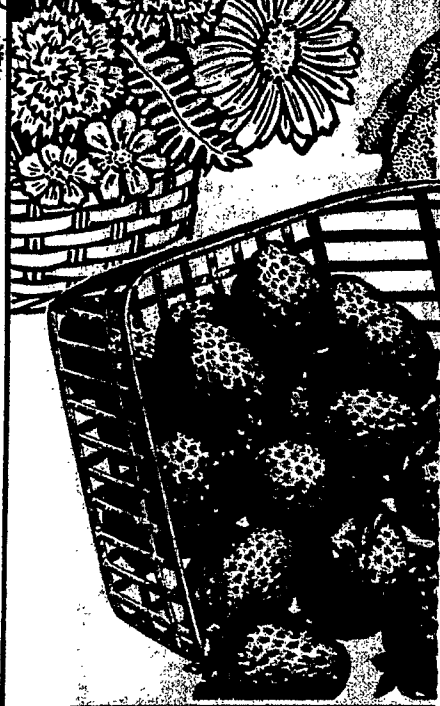

"One employee for health reasons is uncertain of future plans about reemployment. One employee, due to possible job opportunities, has respectfully requested delay in job offering. Three employees have tendered letters of resignation.

"Lastly, six employees have received notice of non-reemployment.

The SSC is the culmination of two and a half years of research and development by the Universities Research Association in Washington D.C., and its completion will provide the United States with an opportunity to regain world leadership in scientific technology.

The Department of Energy has formally invited state governors to make site proposals as of April 1, 1987. The final location of the SSC is expected to be chosen by January of 1989.

MISSISSIPPI AND SSC

In July 1983, the U.S. Department of Energy will recognize finalists in the competition for construction of the SSC. Mississippi has a good chance of being among those finalists.

The project will contribute significantly to the economy of Mississippi, if selected. During the seven-year construction period, it is estimated that 8,100 jobs would be created and $102.8 million a year would be pumped into the state's economy. Once completed, 5,282 new permanent jobs would produce $31.5 million a year for the state.

Moreover, the state chosen for construction of the SSC project will enjoy the prestige of being the foremost world center for high-energy physics research. The international spotlight will be focused on both the scientific research being conducted in the facility and the community supporting it.

Competition for the SSC is an opportunity for Mississippi to gain credibility in the scientific arena, regardless of the outcome. If the state is chosen, the world's finest scientists, industries, and others will begin to see Mississippi in a profound, new light. Even if the state does not land the project, it will have established itself as a "new Mississippi" capable of competing for large scientific projects.

SELECTION PROCESS, DEADLINES

The Department of Energy (DOE) will be in charge of selecting the site on which to build the SSC. This selection process will be comprised of six major steps. Their descriptions and deadlines are as follows:

The SSC is the culmination of two and a half years of research and development by the Universities
Research Association in Washington D.C., and its completion will provide the United States with an opportunity to regain world leadership in scientific technology.

The Department of Energy has formally invited state governors to make site proposals as of April 1, 1987. The final location of the SSC is expected to be chosen by January of 1989.

MISSISSIPPI AND SSC
In July 1983, the U.S. Department of Energy will recognize finalists in the competition for construction of the SSC. Mississippi has a good chance of being among those finalists.

The project will contribute significantly to the economy of Mississippi, if selected. During the seven-year construction period, it is estimated that 8,100 jobs would be created and $102.8 million a year would be pumped into the state's economy. Once completed, 5,282 new permanent jobs would produce $31.5 million a year for the state.

Moreover, the state chosen for construction of the SSC project will enjoy the prestige of being the foremost world center for high-energy physics research. The international spotlight will be focused on both the scientific research being conducted in the facility and the community supporting it.

Competition for the SSC is an opportunity for Mississippi to gain credibility in the scientific arena, regardless of the outcome. If the state is chosen, the world's finest scientists, industries, and others will begin to see Mississippi in a profound, new light. Even if the state does not land the project, it will have established itself as a "new Mississippi" capable of competing for large scientific projects.

SELECTION PROCESS, DEADLINES

The Department of Energy (DOE) will be in charge of selecting the site on which to build the SSC. This selection process will be comprised of six major steps. Their descriptions and used new facility to vibrations. The SSC can stand the possible proxy not be a proand directions. This information will be utilized by physicists around the world in their search for clues to the nature of matter and the forces that hold it together.

The SSC is the culmination of two and a half years of research and development by the Universities Research Association in Washington D.C., and its completion will provide the United States with an opportunity to regain world leadership in scientific technology.

The Department of Energy has formally invited state governors to make site proposals as of April 1, 1967. The final location of the SSC is expected to be chosen by January of 1969.

MISSISSIPPI AND SSC

In July 1963, the U.S. Department of Energy will recognize finalists in the competition for construction of the SSC. Mississippi has a good chance of being among those finalists.

The project will contribute significantly to the economy of Mississippi, if selected. During the seven-year construction period, it is estimated that 8,100 jobs would be created and $102.8 million a year would be pumped into the state's economy. Once completed, 5,222 new permanent jobs would produce $31.5 million a year for the state.

Moreover, the state chosen for construction of the SSC project will enjoy the prestige of being the foremost world center for high-energy physics research. The international spotlight will be focused on both the scientific research being conducted in the facility and the community supporting it.

Competition for the SSC is an opportunity for Mississippi to gain credibility in the scientific arena, regardless of the outcome. If the state is chosen, the world's finest scientists, industries, and others will begin to see Mississippi in a profound, new light. Even if the state does not land the project, it will have established itself as a "new Mississippi" capable of competing for large scientific projects.
